Structural Architecture Memorandum

Purpose	Status	Classification
Choose a launch structure that protects speed, mission, and the future cooperative pathway.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Internal / controlled distribution

RECOMMENDATION Launch One Rising Sun as an invitation-only contractual program administered by Expedition Growth Lab LLC, an Oregon limited liability company. Membership initially conveys access, recognition, and contractual privileges - not equity, governance ownership, agency, franchise rights, or a guaranteed stream of business.

The structural problem

One Rising Sun is intended to create trust, shared capability, economic leverage, and public value for independent participants. Those functions do not all belong naturally inside one legal vehicle. Forcing membership, consulting services, public education, purchasing, distribution, mutual aid, and cooperative ownership into one entity too early would create avoidable tax, governance, liability, and antitrust complications.

Recommended phased structure

Stage	Vehicle	Primary Work	Reason
Launch	ORS program of XGL LLC	Contracts, standards, member services, Stewards, pilots	Fast; clear accountability; no implied ownership
Institutional	Advisory council plus formal committees	Member voice, standards review, appeals, impact oversight	Influence without premature statutory governance
Cooperative	Separately organized member-owned entity if feasible	Group purchasing, distribution, shared logistics, member capital	True ownership, patronage, voting, and fiduciary structure
Paired	XGL service company + ORS cooperative	XGL supplies contracted services; cooperative serves member-owner needs	Separates commercial work from member governance

Decision gates

1. Complete trademark clearance and decide whether One Rising Sun will be registered as an assumed business name, trademark, collective membership mark, or certification mark.

2. Confirm the XGL operating agreement authorizes the program, delegation, restricted funds, brand licensing, and any advisory bodies.
3. Obtain Oregon counsel review of membership, liability, privacy, charitable-solicitation, and volunteer activity provisions before public launch.
4. Do not begin collective purchasing, coordinated supplier negotiations, inventory exchange, or distribution until antitrust counsel approves the operating protocol.
5. Run a cooperative feasibility study before accepting member equity or promising patronage, voting rights, rebates, or redemption rights.

Rejected shortcuts

- Calling ORS a cooperative before members legally own and govern it.
- Using a nonprofit label to conduct primarily member-specific commercial services.
- Selling moral certification to any applicant able to pay.
- Combining member dues, restricted aid funds, sponsor money, cooperative capital, and XGL service revenue in one undifferentiated bucket.

Founding Charter

Purpose	Status	Classification
State the enduring purpose and boundaries of One Rising Sun.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Public after adoption

Preamble

Independent builders, repairers, fabricators, manufacturers, outfitters, dealers, creators, educators, recovery crews, and community organizations give the overland and outdoor world its character. Their work is strongest when knowledge travels, capability connects, and no participant must surrender identity merely to gain the benefits of scale.

One Rising Sun exists to connect those people and organizations into a trusted ecosystem that protects independent enterprise, strengthens communities, and makes useful help easier to mobilize.

Mission

MISSION Connect principled people, capable independent companies, and real community needs so each becomes stronger without being absorbed, standardized, or stripped of judgment.

Vision

An overland and outdoor ecosystem in which independent operators can share leverage, knowledge, logistics, opportunity, and responsibility while remaining meaningfully independent in ownership, culture, design, and decision-making.

Core purposes

- Build durable trust among vetted members.
- Make competence, character, and accountability visible.
- Connect member capabilities with verified human and community needs.
- Expand economic opportunity for independent operators through education, referrals, collaboration, and - when lawful and feasible - cooperative infrastructure.
- Protect variety in ownership, craft, regional character, product design, employment, and customer experience.
- Cultivate promising companies rather than merely sorting the worthy from the unworthy.
- Create public value beyond the membership itself.

Founding promises

- Membership cannot be purchased around the standards.
- No member, donor, supplier, founder, or personality may buy control of the mission.
- ORS will distinguish corporate scale from the moral character of individuals working inside large institutions.
- ORS will cooperate where scale helps and preserve independence where identity matters.
- The network will seek evidence, allow fair response, and judge patterns and repair - not gossip or synthetic perfection.
- Private member information will not be weaponized for sales, coercion, exclusion, or competitive advantage.

Amendment

Until a separate ORS entity exists, XGL may amend this Charter only through the reserved-powers process in Document 8. Material amendments require written reasons, a member-comment period, review for capture and antitrust risk, and publication of the adopted change. No amendment may convert membership into equity or a cooperative interest without a separate written instrument and all required legal approvals.

DOCUMENT 3

Statement of Principles

Purpose	Status	Classification
Translate the Charter into standards for judgment.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Public after adoption

Human scale

Authority should remain close enough to consequences that a named human can listen, decide, and make things right.

Independent judgment

Members retain ownership, voice, regional character, supplier choice, customer relationships, and design philosophy.

Capability with conscience

Reach, equipment, expertise, money, and attention create responsibility; they do not create rank.

Trust earned in behavior

A story, logo, celebrity, donation, or environmental claim is evidence only when conduct supports it.

Repair over theater

Mistakes are expected. Concealment, retaliation, indifference, and repeated failure without learning are not.

Community before optics

Help should answer a real need and preserve recipient dignity, not turn hardship into promotional scenery.

Stewardship

Members care for people, equipment, land, knowledge, institutions, and relationships entrusted to them.

Plurality

A resilient ecosystem needs many owners, many approaches, and many places where good work can take root.

Reciprocity without bookkeeping of the soul

Members contribute according to capability without converting every act of generosity into an invoice or public-relations asset.

Truth before comfort

ORS investigates ownership, conduct, limitations, and claims honestly, including its own failures.

Non-Capture Covenant

Purpose	Status	Classification
Protect the mission from financial, ideological, personality, and market capture.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Internal / controlled distribution

COVENANT No source of money, attention, inventory, access, or influence is entitled to own the sun.

Prohibited forms of capture

- Financial capture through dependence on one donor, member, sponsor, vendor, customer, or capital provider.
- Market capture through exclusivity, coercive tying, supplier boycotts, resale-price coordination, or suppression of small competitors.
- Personality capture in which a founder, celebrity, creator, or executive becomes indistinguishable from the institution.
- Political capture through candidate, party, government, or ideological control unrelated to ORS's mission.
- Data capture through use of member information to compete against, pressure, acquire, or disintermediate members.
- Standards capture through purchased recognition, hidden influence, or eligibility rules designed around one participant's business model.

Structural safeguards

- No payment guarantees admission, renewal, endorsement, preferred-vendor status, or immunity from review.
- Material gifts, sponsorships, conflicts, and restricted funding are disclosed and reviewed.
- A controlled subsidiary inherits the ownership implications of its parent even if its public branding appears independent.
- No single member receives an exclusive category, veto, guaranteed purchasing volume, or access to another member's nonpublic information merely because it contributes more money.
- Standards amendments receive written reasons, conflict review, member notice, and an adoption record.

- ORS maintains revenue and capability concentration thresholds set annually by the governing body after financial and legal review.

Breach and remedy

A credible capture concern triggers conflict disclosure, temporary recusal or protective restriction, documented review, and an opportunity to respond. Remedies may include conditions, structural separation, return or redirection of funds, termination of exclusivity, suspension, or termination. The least destructive effective remedy is preferred, but mission integrity controls.

Cooperate Without Consolidating Doctrine

Purpose	Status	Classification
Define the economic philosophy of shared leverage without surrendered identity.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Public after adoption

DOCTRINE Cooperate where scale helps. Remain independent where identity matters. Maximum shared leverage; minimum surrendered autonomy.

Members keep

- Ownership and lawful control
- Company name and culture
- Employees and employment judgment
- Customer relationships
- Regional and craft identity
- Independent pricing and competitive decisions
- Freedom to select suppliers and products
- The right to decline optional programs

Members may share

- Education and tested practices
- Introductions and referrals
- Emergency capability
- Noncompetitive resources
- Freight and logistics opportunities
- Voluntary purchasing programs approved by counsel
- Tools, facilities, and specialized expertise
- Public storytelling with consent

Hard boundaries

ORS does not coordinate member selling prices, wages, customers, territories, bids, output, boycotts, or competitively sensitive plans. ORS does not require uniform inventory, exclusivity, brand conformity, customer transfer, or acquisition rights. Joint purchasing and distribution functions require separate documented legal review and operating controls.

DOCUMENT 6

Independence and Ecosystem Impact Standard

Purpose	Status	Classification
Evaluate ownership, agency, and effects on the surrounding industry.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Internal / controlled distribution

Evaluation dimensions

Dimension	Core question
Ownership	Who ultimately owns, finances, and may sell the company?
Authority	Can a named leader make consequential decisions and repair harm?
Growth method	Has growth come mainly through building capability or absorbing competitors?
Plurality	Does success expand meaningful choice in the ecosystem?
Partner effects	Are dealers, suppliers, employees, and creators strengthened or made dependent?
Data behavior	Is ecosystem data used to serve participants or disintermediate them?
Durability	Are products supported, repairable, documented, and responsibly warranted?
Accountability	What happens when the company is wrong?
Community	Are contributions specific, useful, respectful, and evidenced?
Scale fit	Would ORS matter to the organization enough for real human engagement?

Assessment result

- Aligned: strong evidence of independence, accountability, and positive ecosystem effect.
- Aligned with conditions: suitable if named gaps are corrected or monitored.
- Developmental: promising but not ready; may receive a written path toward eligibility.
- Structurally ineligible: ownership, control, scale, or ecosystem effects conflict with ORS purpose.
- Conduct ineligible: credible patterns of dishonesty, exploitation, retaliation, unsafe disregard, or mission-incompatible behavior.

A denial is not a declaration that every person inside the organization lacks character. ORS evaluates institutional fit, including scale and structure, for a deliberately selective ecosystem.

DOCUMENT 8

Governance and Reserved Powers Framework

Purpose	Status	Classification
Define interim authority, member voice, amendment controls, and transition toward durable governance.	WORKING DRAFT - ATTORNEY REVIEW REQUIRED BEFORE EXECUTION	Internal / controlled distribution

INTERIM GOVERNANCE Until a separate ORS entity is formed, Expedition Growth Lab LLC, an Oregon limited liability company is the legal operator and final decision-maker. Advisory participation does not create fiduciary office, partnership, agency, or ownership unless a separate signed instrument expressly says otherwise.

Governance bodies

Body	Primary authority
XGL Managing Members	Legal operation, contracts, finances, risk, staffing, final launch-stage decisions
ORS Steward Council	Mission guidance, standards review, member voice, community priorities; advisory at launch
Membership Review Committee	Diligence, admission, renewal, conditions, conflicts, documented recommendations
Appeals Panel	Independent review of contested adverse decisions; excludes original decision-makers and conflicted persons
Compliance Lead	Antitrust, privacy, records, incident response, meeting safeguards, annual training

Reserved powers

- Amend the Charter, Non-Capture Covenant, eligibility standards, or membership agreement.
- Admit, suspend, terminate, or reinstate members and Stewards.
- Approve use of ORS marks, public endorsements, or certification-like claims.
- Accept restricted funding or commitments creating material dependence.
- Begin collective purchasing, distribution, warehousing, cooperative capital, or patronage programs.
- Create or dissolve a separate ORS entity.
- Sell, assign, exclusively license, or materially encumber ORS intellectual property.

Decision standard

Reserved decisions require a written record of purpose, authority, conflicts, material risks, alternatives, and consistency with the Charter. Charter or capture-related decisions also require Steward Council consultation when reasonably practicable. Emergency action may precede consultation only when delay threatens safety, legal compliance, assets, or mission integrity; reasons must then be recorded promptly.

Maturation trigger

XGL will review the governance structure when ORS reaches any two of the following: [25] full members; [$250,000] in annual ORS-directed revenue or restricted funds; operations in [five] states; collective purchasing under active design; or material member capital under consideration. The review will consider a separate entity, member voting, board duties, and conflicts between XGL service work and ORS governance.
